A successful “Your Business and Non-Profit Legal Questions Answered!” workshop was held at the Loup Basin RC&D Office on Wednesday January 5, 2011. The Loup Basin RC&D and REAP, Rural Enterprise Assistance Project, a program of the Center of Rural Affairs hosted Speaker Milo Alexander, Director of Community Economic Development Clinic, Creighton University School of Law.

Nonprofit organizations are vital to many rural communities. They draw on local talent and energy to advance education, the arts, Economic Development and other interests. Milo’s presentation was helpful for those already active in an existing nonprofit and for those thinking about forming one. It covered both Nebraska and federal legal requirements for nonprofit corporations and tax-exempt 501 (c) (3) organizations.

The afternoons presentation addressed the practical pros and cons of the LLC and S corporation in terms of legal formalities, flexibility, transferability, and tax consequences. Current business owners, individuals considering starting a business, ag producers, bankers, accountants, attorneys, service providers and other interested parties valued this workshop.

The workshop was sponsored by the Loup Basin RC&D Council and REAP, Rural Enterprise Assistance Project.
